DETAILED ACTION

Specification

The abstract of the disclosure is objected to because it should describe the claimed invention. Correction is required. See MPEP § 608.01(b).

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-4 are provisionally rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 19, 30 and 31 of copending Application No. 09/886,030. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because in claims 19 and 30 of '030, the claimed first and second valves are considered sufficiently broad in scope to be inclusive of first and second manually-controlled valves, as claimed in claims 1 and 3 of the instant application.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1 and 3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Horvath et al (US 4,707,027).

With respect to claim 1, Horvath et al discloses an inflatable product, including: a first chamber (8); a first valve (16); an air pump (14) for inflating the first chamber through the first valve; a first switch (22/28) for activating the air pump and opening the first valve; and a switch circuit (see Figures 2 and 3) through which the air pump is activated by the first switch, wherein the switch circuit has a second switch (26) turned on by the first switch when the first switch is turned on, and a relay (30 or 32) activated to supply the air pump with power when the second switch is turned on (see column 3 lines 4-40).

It should be noted that contacts 26 and 28, given the broadest reasonable interpretation, are considered switches. Refer to the following definition of “switch”:

switch (swĭch) noun

5. Abbr. sw. A device used to break or open an electric circuit or to divert current from one conductor to another.¹

With respect to claim 3, further comprising a second chamber (10); a second valve (18) through which the air pump inflates the second chamber; and a third switch (24/first contact of switch 24) to activate the air pump and open the second valve, wherein the switch circuit has a fourth switch (second contact) turned on by the third switch when the third switch is turned on, and the relay is activated to supply the air pump with power when the fourth switch is turned on (see column 3 lines 4-40).

Note that the first and second valves have been interpreted as "manually-controlled" since a manual action is required for their activation.

Claims 5, 7-9 and 11-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Horvath et al (US 4,707,027).

As described above in the rejections of claims 1 and 3, Horvath et al discloses substantially all of the limitations of claims 5, 7-9 and 11-12. Further, Horvath et al discloses a pack body, as shown in Figure 1. While it is foreseen that the first, second, third and fourth switches are disposed in/on this pack body and the first and second valves are disposed in this pack body, this is not explicitly disclosed. Nevertheless, from standard engineering knowledge and skill, it would have been within the purview of and obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to incorporate the first through fourth switches in/on the pack body.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 6, 10 and 13-16 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
